Work on the unified agreement started more than ten years ago “An agreement of this scope has been in the works for many decades,” Sanila-Aikio says.. ”The agreement has yet to be technically proofread, and the required amendments to Finland’s national legislation on the right to vote will be made before the next elections, which will be held in autumn 2019, according to a Ministry of Justice release.. ”The most salient change affecting the lives of Sámi people in Finland is that an older, archaic definition of a person belonging to that demographic has been done away with.

The Norwegian, Finnish, Swedish and Sámi Parliaments all have to process the agreement before it can be made law.
